

KAFTITOSH

Kaftitosh is a student in 11 grade at Mashal Bayat high school in Kabul, Afghanistan. He is considered to be a talented student by his school, with a 89.7% cumulative grade in his 10th grade year.

He is living in Kabul, but he is originally from the Badakhshan province. His father has died when he was seven years old, so his mother was his supporter in life, providing him with school materials, clothing, and other supplies with a minimum income that she worked very hard to obtain.

He joined scouting in 2013. Having been talented in Scouting activities both physically and mentally, he was selected by his fellow Scout patrol members as the patrol leader and after that was elected as the Scribe of his troop. He has achieved several certificates for skills he learned from Scouting, like the Better World Program, Scout Conference for SDGs, etc...

He is keen to work hard in Scouting to bring change in the community and be an incentive for others. Next to studying at school, he has been working with his mother since he was nine years old. But with the Taliban taking control of Afghanistan, his mother is no longer allowed to work.

Let us help him fulfill his dream of studying in the US to further his education and give him the skills to be employed somewhere, anywhere, so he can support his mother and have a better life.
