

TABASUM

Our destiny is the result of our beliefs. I believe that I can and will succeed. I am Tabasum Hooram and I am a 16 years old high school student from Takhar, Afghanistan. My favorite subject in school is mathematics, and I would love to become a neurosurgeon.

I joined Scouting in 2017 to serve society and become a helpful person in my community. I enjoy helping people and making positive change.

I worked as a journalist on local television in the Takhar province. I was also a member of the national song team of my country. My favorite sport is volleyball, and I played volleyball on my school team. When my country fell into the Taliban's hands, I was a 10th-grade student at Bibi Hajerh high school. I continued my education with a persistent hope, not knowing that a day would come when I would be deprived of school and education, working, and serving outside the home because of the crime of being a girl. In the current situation, we girls are facing many challenges and problems. I want to find a safe place in any corner of the world to pursue my dreams.
